

HOW TO KEEP PACKAGE PRICES DOWN DESPITE RISING COST

Inflation in Europe and throughout the World is at record high and recent geopolitical tensions are putting further tensions on costs. But we have a couple of hints how to keep package prices down.

WHICH PRICES ARE MOST AFFECTED?

Europe has seen record high inflation in 2021 and unfortunately prices will continue to rise. Energy prices have been on the rise which increases not only coach rates, but the whole supply chain. Furthermore, Ukraine and Russia are some of the largest producers of wheat and other agricultural commodities, which will increase prices of food.

HOW TO KEEP PRICES DOWN?

BOOK EARLY TO LOCK IN RATES

As oil prices and food prices further increase, providers will increase price as well. We predict that suppliers from coach providers to hotels and restaurants will make a series of smaller price hikes throughout the year. This is why it is sensible to book early so that we can make bookings under current contracts and lock in your rates before further price increase.

CURRENCY IS IN YOUR FAVOR

Our Escorted tours and Adriatic cruises are quoted in EUR. Guests who make bookings and pay deposits now will benefit from cheaper EUR.

MORE FREEDOM, LOWER RATES

Taking a meal or two out from the package, arranging free time when guests can visit more expensive attractions on their own instead of including them in the package price will keep rates down and cost more reasonable.

RATES IN CENTRAL AND EAST BALKAN ARE STILL LOWER

Although prices have been rising throughout the region, rates in Central, South and East Balkan (Bosnia, Albania, North Macedonia etc) have been historically lower than in Slovenia and Croatia. Spending more time in these countries will help keeping your rates down.
